Fire at Cannel City.

A dwelling house in the upper end of Cannel City, known as the Prater property, and belonging to the O. & Ky. Ry. Co., was destroyed by fire last Sunday morning about 11 o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss about $1,000.

Spotted Fever At Berea.

A dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer Sunday from Berea says: Serum sent by Dr. Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute at New York, arrived too late to save Floyd Robertson, a spotted fever victim. He makes the third death due to the disease. All victims were students at Berea College. Over 100 students have left the college.

Woman Killed by O. & K.

Mrs. Jane Kilbourn was struck by an east bound train at Frozen last Saturday afternoon while trying to drive her cow off of the track. The engine hit the cow and knocked her against the woman who was thrown between the engine and the platform and she was crushed so badly that she died the same night about twelve o'clock. She had been keeping house for her son, Arthur Kilbourn, whose wife died about a month ago.

Taken for River Men.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Wm. Mays, of Owsley county, was here Tuesday. He had warrants few days ago for the arrest of fifteen men charged with moonshining and the illegal sale of liquor on the head of Long's creek, Squeebly creek, Bull's Skin and Buffalo creeks. He sent word for them to meet him at Keen Gilbert's, on Buffalo Sunday, which they did. Mr. Mays says when he approached Gilbert's all the parties were there awaiting him and that the scene resembled a crowd at a country meeting house. They were taken to Beattyville and placed in jail and were given an examining trial last Monday before U. S. Commissioner J. M. Beatty and three were acquitted and the remainder held over to the Federal court at Frankfort. Mr. Mays said quite a number of people on the road thought they were river men and wanted to know where they were going to take their timber. The boys replied that they were going to run it to Frankfort and sell it on six months time and board it out.

Recipe Mixed Often.

Some remarkable stories are being told about town and among the country people coming in of this simple home-made mixture curing Rheumatism and Kidney trouble. Here is the recipe and direction for taking: Mix by shaking well in a bottle one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Karon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of good water.

This mixture, writes one authority in a leading Philadelphia newspaper, has a peculiar tonic effect upon the kidneys; cleansing the clogged-up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter, overcoming Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary troubles in a short while.

A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for these ingredients since the first announcement in the newspapers last October stated that the people who once try it "swear by it," especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.

The druggist in this neighborhood say they can be easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood-cleansing agent or system tonic known, and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

ESTILL COUNTY

Irvine.

We learn that A. D. Bell has applied to Judge Adair for the office of Master Commander of Estill county. We would be glad to learn of his appointment, for he is a worthy man. ... Hardee is seriously ill. He was suddenly taken down with pain near his heart. ... Your correspondent was at Irvine Monday shaking hands with his friends and neighbors. The most important things talked about was election. I hope the time will soon come when men can run for office without having to put money before they can have the names put on the ballot. ... Our forefathers filled the same offices in their day as we do now, there was no such thing as getting to get their names on the ballot. Just as soon as a poor man becomes a candidate for office, you will at once hear the politicians. They begin to raise a hue and cry a poor man cannot be beat because he has no means to make the race. It is not the money that makes the man; it is the heart. He carries in his bosom love that flows to friends and to alike. ... L. C. Wilson bought four oxen from Alfred Crowder for $185. ... Abner Wieseman has moved to the Pleasant Witt farm, Calvary Creek. ... Our engineer surveyor has been surveying for A. D. Powell, John Vaughn, W. H. Witt and Henry Hines.

ESTILL COUNTY

Noland.

Curt French and C. E. Deney, both of Locust Gap, were married January 1. Mrs. Huston Walton, guest of her sister, Mrs. French last week. ... I. L. Walton and wife, of Locust Gap, were the guests of Huston Walton recently. ... James A. Fry went to get off his uncle last Thursday, his coat hung in the stirrup and he fell and hurt himself badly. ... Jeff Garrett and wife, were visiting Mrs. Garrett's brother in Richmond recently. ... David Day moved to his new farm last week. ... June Warford and wife were visiting Columbus Cox several days ago. ... Wade Johnson and Jim Carr, of Paulina, were visiting on Locust Branch Wednesday and Thursday of last week. ... John H. Peters has been visiting his mother in Owsley county. ... D. G. Garrett went to his father's, R. M. Garrett, last Saturday and Sunday this week.

LEE COUNTY.

Primrose.

As "Hoover" wants to take another lay-off, he has turned his correspondence over to "Chatterbox" ... Rev. J. B. Nolan, who has been in our midst for the past week holding a protracted meeting, left Monday for his auditor's office.

The personal effects of Wm. Boothe, dec'd., were sold at his old homestead on Devil's creek last Thursday. Every thing sold high.

James Gosney is the new proprietor of the St. Cloud Hotel.

Dr. J. R. Carroll was called to Stillwater on professional business Monday.

Uncle Granville Evans, aged 82 years, residing one mile south of Campton, died Monday after a severe illness of a few weeks.

"Governor" Evans, as he was generally known, had many friends among the best citizens of our county and many of his humorous sayings will be remembered because of their originality. He was buried by the Masonic fraternity at the side of his father in the old White grave yard. ... Married, on the 8th inst., Miss Eliza Arnold, daughter of Newton Arnold, of this place, and Curtis Stamper, of Tulsa, I. T., Rev. M. F. Stamper officiating. The young couple left Monday for the Indian Territory where they expect to make their future home. We wish them a happy and successful life.

"You are accused," said the court severely to the automobile, "of having run this man down."

"Sure, I did, your honor," responded the prisoner, "but I'd heard him run down my make of machine."

Naturally this circumstance was taken into consideration. — Exchange.

Morg.

Mrs. John Cashman is on the sick list.

George King was visiting friends on Morg Sunday.

Mrs. S. B. Toulin has been quite sick for the last few days.

Mr. McGuire, of Saint Helens, is visiting his son, Kelly, on Fronzen, this week.

Leslie Lockard came very near getting killed the other day by being kicked by a horse.

John Cardwell, of Boone, is preparing to move in our neighborhood, on the farm of Kelly McGuire.

Our Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely; 27 in attendance last Sunday as bad as the day was.

In answer to the question of the Irvine correspondent, he said: "Read your Bible before you answer." He should have read his Bible before he asked the question. Genesis 1 chapter, 27 verse, says: "So God created man in His own image in the image of God created He man and female. created He them" and this was the evening and the morning of the sixth days. He finished his work in six days and rested on the seventh, and what Moses says in the 2 chapter of the same book is describing only how God did this work.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE.

We are authorized to announce
JUDGE G. W. GOURLEY,
Of Beattyville, Ky., as a candidate for

COMMONWEALTH'S ATT'Y.

We are authorized to announce
A. H. STAMPER.

of Campion, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of this the 23d judicial district, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Election Nov. 3, 1908.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of the 23d judicial district, composed of the counties of Breathitt, Wolfe, Lee and Estill, subject to the action of the Republican party. I solicit the support of all good citizens regardless of party affiliations.

A. H. PATTON.

We are authorized to announce
Z. T. HURST.

Of Breathitt county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney for this the 23d judicial district, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.
I take this means of announce-ing myself as a candidate for County Court Clerk of Breathitt County, subject to the action of the Democratic party. If elected I shall, regardless of party affiliations, be your most obedient servant.

ALFRED RUSSELL.

A Strong Democrat.
In this issue of The News will be found the announcement of Hon. A. H. Stamper, of Campion, as a candidate for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of the 23d Judicial district, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Mr. Stamper has been practicing law for 15 years and is considered one of the ablest criminal lawyers in this section of the State. He is a power before a jury, being eloquent, forceful, logical and convincing in his arguments. He is a self-made man; his father dying when he was only a child, but being possessed with indomitable will and courage he had by reason of hard study and close application forged his way to the front.

Mr. Stamper's candidacy will have much to do with uniting the Democratic party in this district, and, if elected in our judgment will make an able, strong and fearless prosecutor, and an official that all good, law-abiding citizens will be proud of.

Mr. Stamper was elected county attorney of Wolfe county two terms and filled the office with distinction and much credit to himself as well as the county. He was elected in 1896 as a Bryan elector and made a vigorous canvass of the the Tenth Congressional district and paid his own expenses. Afterwards he was a candidate for the State Senate; his opponent being Judge Hampton, of this county, and Mr. Stamper won the nomination, which was contested, and in the interest of harmony and Democratic success, he and his opponent withdrew and Charles Sublett, of Magoffin country, was made the nominee.

Mr. Stamper is a prominent Mason, Odd Fellow, Red Man and one of the brightest and most zealous members of the Jr. O. U.
A. M. in this section of the State.

Patton in the Race.

We call attention to the announcement of A. H. Patton of the Jackson bar, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of the 23d Judicial district. The election comes up at the regular November election, 1908, and we predict that Mr. Patton's candidacy will receive the hearty support of his party and will be especially pleasing to the people of his home county. The office should be filled by an able, honest and courageous lawyer. In our opinion he is the best qualified man of his party in the district for the office. He is recognized as one of the leading lawyers of the district; and that his integrity is above reproach no one will question who knows him.

Out of all the lawyers in this county Mr. Patton was the only one who had the courage to come out boldly and stand for the people's rights in the noted "Hogback" election. He was the Republican campaign chairman and did as much as any one man to free our county from the toils of the lawless element then crushing out life and liberty. He was unceasing in his efforts in organizing, counseling and preaching liberty from the house tops. Neither betrays nor menaces could intimidate him. Behind our enemies, or facing them, in public or private, he was the same undaunted, fearless champion of the people's rights. Wherever the fight was the hottest he was in the thickest of the fray. These things and many other worthy acts the people will not forget.

Mr. Patton is entitled to the office to which he aspires, and should have had the appointment at the hands of the Governor.

Judge G. W. Gourley.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the announcement of Judge G. W. Gourley, of Beattyville, as a candidate for Circuit Judge of this district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Riddell. We have known Judge Gourley for many years and while we have not always agreed with him on all questions, we are free to say that he is an honest man and a good lawyer and justly ranks as one of the leading legal lights of this section. Judge Gourley is a strong man with his party and has always been consistent Republican, working hard for his party at all times. He is well and favorable known all over the district and has hosts of friends in every county. He is especially strong in his home county and it looks like he will land the nomination. The Republicans will make no mistake in nominating Judge Gourley. He is the strongest man in his party in this district.

ELECTION THIS FALL
Circuit Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney
Must be Elected November 3, 1908.

THE LAW THAT GOVERNS.

The appointment of James P.
Adams as Circuit Judge to succeed the late Judge Robert Riddell, and of Kelly Kash to succeed Mr. Adams as Commonwealth's Attorney for this district are good only till the next election. There must be an election held in November to fill these offices. A part of the Constitution of the State and an opinion of the Court of Appeals constraining that section follows. Section 152 of the Constitution says:

"Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, vacancies in all elective offices shall be filled by election or appointment, as follows: If the unexpired term will end at the next succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment for the remainder of the term. If the unexpired term will not end at the next succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected, and if three months intervene before said succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment until said regular election, and then said office shall be filled by election for the remainder of the term."

In the case of Todd vs. Johnson, 99, Ky., 548, it is decided that:

"Residential electors are State officers in the meaning of this section, and vacancies in elective offices may be filled at the succeeding annual election at which electors for president are to be elected."

The Constitution says that if the vacancy occurs three months before an election at which either a city, town, county, district or State officer is elected, the vacancy SHALL be filled at that election by election. The Court of Appeals decides that a presidential elector is a State officer within the meaning of this section of the Constitution, and as presidential electors are to be elected at the coming election there must necessarily be an election of Circuit Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney.

An Apparition.

[Original.]

One evening when the United States forces under General Scott were marching from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico, fighting by the way, several officers were chatting in front of a tent.
"I saw Harding today," said one of them, Lieutenant Inn Paul. "I hadn't seen him since we were graduated at the Point six years ago. I didn't know he was with this army. I supposed he was with General Taylor.
We were roommates at the academy and used to have lots of talks after raps. Harding was full of queer ideas.
Before we parted we had made an agreement, common with youngster chums, that whichever of the two first was to appear if possible to the other."

"I wonder how a fellow would take such a visitation as that," remarked one of the party.

"Harding would take it coolly enough," put in another. "He isn't afraid of the devil."

"So long as he didn't believe it to be permanent. But supposing him to be conscious that it was?"

"Faint, you might try him some time.
You'd have a fine chance, considering your agreement with him."

"I'd have to get killed first or he'd have to think I'd been killed," added Paul carelessly, and the subject was dropped.

At the capture of the City of Mexico
Lieutenant Paul was reported killed.
He had shrewdly got detached during some hard fighting and was taken prisoner, but before he could be sent to the rear he had turned and, and he was left to his own sweet will. Being within the Mexican lines, he needed to rejoin the American army. He was successful and about 9 in the evening appeared before some of his brother officers, much to their astonishment.

"This would be a good opportunity for you to appear in spirit form to Harding," suggested one of them.
"He's sure you're dead."

"So it would," said Paul. "I believe I'll try it."

The others, pleased at the prospect of some amusement, concealed Lieutenant Paul till midnight, when, having chalked his face, touched his hair and daubed a wound over his heart with berry juice, he made ready to appear to his friend. Harding had got up his tent and was occupying it. The tent flaps were thrown back, the light of a full moon streaming within the canvass. To avoid a mishap one of the officers necessary to the experiment had during the evening gone into the tent while Harding was not there and removed Harding's pistol, replacing it with another loaded with blank cartridges.

An hour before midnight Harding was lying awake thinking of the friends he had lost during the day, especially regretting Paul, of whom he was very fond. He was shaking into drowsiness when a zephyr slowly wafted a cloud like a puff of smoke before his tent, and in it and partly concealed by it was the figure of his friend. When the cloud drifted on it left the apparition standing facing the moonlight. It was looking straight ahead on a vacant, white as death eyes hollow, half unkempt and a red sunrise on the left stuff. There was not the slightest movement.

Harding raised himself upon his elbow and looked. He had long ago got over any belief in the return of those who have died, if he had ever had any such belief, but this appearance of one he felt reasonably sure was dead in this ghastly fashion stung him. He fell no fear, though an indelible horror began to creep over him, a sort of paralysis. He would have been relieved at the slightest movement, sound, anything to break the spell. It was the unexpectedness of the manner of his friend keeping his appointment, if indeed such it was.
He had expected Paul to look at him, to speak to him, but here was the ghost turned aside, the face ghostly in the moonlight, as impulsive as a statue.

Harding was simply lost in a horrible wonder. He had no desire to speak to the apparition or whatever it was. He would not have known what to say if he had such a desire. All the while something like a chill from a sepiulcher was creeping over him. If any one afterward had asked him how long the apparition lasted, he would have said not less than fifteen or twenty minutes by the watch. Yet up to this point not more than fifteen seconds had been ticked.

Then came the only change in the figure that was made during the stay.
The dawning of a smile appeared on the face. Imperceptibly it broadened till a ghastly grin extended from ear to ear.

Paul heard a moan from within the tent and immediately strode away to some of his comrades who were waiting and told them to go at once to Harding. They found him cold as death and insensible. One spritzed his face, another chafed him, while a third poured brandy down his throat.
Presently he revived. Paul did not go near him till he had got the chafing off his face and Harding had been informed that he was alive and the whole thing had been intended for a practical joke.

"It's the way you did it that flustered me," said Harding. "Men talking like ghosts is all nonsense. You can't make a ghost's voice out of a human being's.
You played your part well. But how did you contrive the cloud?"

"Turned a little powder and fanned the smoke past the face of your ghost."

Farmers in the Southwest are getting rich on the increasing value of their farms.

Not so many years ago Illinois and Iowa land sold for ten dollars an acre. More recently Nebraska lands sold at that price.
Look at them now. What makes them so high? The land is no better than it was then. What caused the price to go up? People—nothing but people, and lots of them. History will repeat itself in the Southwest—only it will not take so long. The Southwest is growing very fast; much faster than any other section of the United States. The land in the Southwest is just as good as Illinois, Iowa or Nebraska land. But there is more land than there are people, that's the only reason it's so cheap. How long do you think it will take the Southwest to get as many people to the farm acre as Illinois or Iowa has? Just about five years—ten at the very outside.
When that time comes you will have to pay just as much for land in the Southwest as you would pay in Illinois or Iowa.

Why not buy your farm in the Southwest now—when you can get it cheap—cheap enough for you to get a big one? A few years hence you will be looked upon just as the man who owns 640 acres in Illinois is looked upon to-day—as a substantial, well-to-do, leading member of your community.

Man was made on the sixth day of creation. Thus the heavens and the earth were finished and all the hosts of them. Woman was finished and made finer, for God always ascends in creation.
And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had made.
He did nothing on the seventh day but bless it. Woman was

A DEATH STRUGGLE

This is How Our Correspondent Characterizes Senatorial Flight and Local Option Bill.

ALL OTHER INTERESTS SUFFER

Session of Kentucky Legislature Half Over and Practically Nothing Has Been Done. Nor Is There Much Prospect of Anything Being Done Until the Senatorial Deadlock Is Broken—Interesting Notes on the Tense Situation Prevailing at Frankfort.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 18.—The senatorial race and the county unit local option bill are still in the throes of a death struggle that is liable to drag every other interest into its vortex and all sink or swim as a result of that struggle. The session is over half gone and practically nothing has been done. Both sides are afraid to vote on any important legislation for fear it may have some effect on the senatorial fight. The tobacco legislation is being neglected, school legislation is being neglected, in fact everything is being postponed or neglected. The legislative bodies remain in session but a short time each day and seem positively averse to doing any serious work. The Democrats say the county unit bill will pass the house this week, while the Republicans say it will not. Those who claim to be the best posted say, just as they did last week, that a senator will not be elected till the county unit bill is disposed of finally in some way. Of course there are all kinds of rumors about it. One man will tell you that he heard a Democrat who has been voting for Beckham say if Bradley could get enough votes to the Beckham he would walk out of the house and not vote on that ballot thus electing Bradley. Another man will tell you that he heard three or four Republicans who are strong for the county unit bill say that if the few liquor Democrats try to combine with the Republicans and elect anyone but Bradley, they will vote for Beckham. Still another man will tell you that the county unit bill has nothing to do with it and that Bradley will win as soon as one of the Democrats in the house is unseated, which event will occur this week or next.

This legislature is not far behind its predecessors in the number of "scare-crow" bills before it. By "scare-crow" bills I mean bills that are introduced just to scare some corporation or some interest into doing something or paying something to have the bill defeated. A story is told on one green member that he asked an old member, "How could he get some rail-road passed for his friends?" He was told that the proper and usual way was to introduce a bill to require all railroads to push their trains with locomotives instead of pulling them. He drew up the bill and was about to offer it, but his joking friend found it out just in time to prevent it. The average new member wished to make a "free-cord," too, and keeps his campaign promises by introducing bills on all imaginable subjects. The titles to these bills are published in the newspapers and usually that is the last ever heard of them, for they die in the committee and the author returns home and tells how he made a desperate effort to have his important measures passed, but he could make no headway because the corporations fought them, when as a matter of fact no corporation probably ever heard of his bills. They have made a "free-cord," though, and usually run for congress on it, then retire to the cooling shades of private life. This is not always the case, however, for five of the Kentucky congressmen, viz., A. D. James, Ben Johnson, W. P. Kimball, Harvey Helm and John Langley, have served in the legislature. Congressman Ollie James, Owlesley Stanley, Swagar Sherley, Joe Rhinehart, J. B. Bennett and D. C. Edwards had never served in the legislature.

During the first two weeks of this session it looked like every member of the legislature wanted to have the honor of introducing a bill to repeal the dog-tax law. Two or three bills were introduced every day to repeal it, and it was freely predicted that the first bill passed would be one to take the tax off of dogs. A change has taken place, however, and now it seems very doubtful if the tax is repealed at all. Nearly all these repeal bills were the result of campaign promises, the candidates pledging themselves to introduce a bill to repeal the dog tax as soon as the legislature met. They have kept the promises, but now the sheep men are making themselves felt. Several delegations of farmers from different counties have appeared before the committee having the bills in charge and while the discussions have been warm and the anti-dog-tax men have been insistent, there has been a decided change in sentiment. The sheep raisers say the law is just now beginning to be understood and its effect appreciated; that hundreds of sheep were last year by dogs, but the owners have been paid full value for the sheep, something that was never done before. They urge that if the law is given a further trial of two years it will never be repealed, as it will be thoroughly demonstrated in that time that the law is an absolute necessity and works no hardship on anyone.

So far only two bills have passed both houses and are ready for the approval of the governor, these two being a bill giving the governor the power to appoint a stenographer for his office and a bill providing for several messengers and stenographers for the senate and house. A number of bills, however, have passed one house and may pass the other before the session ends, amongst the number being the Cressel tobacco bill which provides a heavy fine for a violation of a contract to pool tobacco. It has passed

UMBRELLA HOLDER.

Made of Material to Suit the Hanging of the Room.

These holders will be found very convenient to hang in a cupboard, as good umbrellas are apt to get damaged if left in the hall stand. They look well made in figured linen or of any material to suit the hangings of the room. The one shown in the illustration is of lace with a cream ground and red roses. A yard of thirty-six inch material is cut into five parts, two pieces for the back, which measures thirty-four inches long and eight inches in width, the gussets and sides, measuring thirty inches long and four inches wide; for the front cut, one piece thirty inches by seven inches wide. To make up the holder first put the two back pieces together and bind them round the top and six inches down on each side with braid. Stitch the two gussets to the front piece and make a deep hem at the top, then stitch on to the back down each side and across the bottom, folding the gussets in and stitching them across twice. Secure two brass rings to the top corners to complete the article.

How to Obtain and Keep These Blessings.

Don't let the thought that you cannot at all times get to sleep when you wish cause you any anxiety, for often the fear of insomnia has a worse effect on the system than the lack of sleep. Often a bath just before retiring is advantageous.

Make the attempt to learn why you do not sleep (do this during the day, not at night); then make every possible effort to correct your habits, and you probably will succeed. To take a raw egg, separate an egg, beat the yolk till thick, and lemon colored and the white till it is stiff; then blend them, adding a heaping tablespoonful of powdered sugar, a dash of salt and two tablespoons of brandy. The brandy cooks the egg, so that the raw taste to which some object is gone. There is nourishment enough in it to make a meal for any one with a weak stomach. Wrinkles in a young person's face are often merely lines of congested pores, tiny lines of blackheads, which will be found upon opening a wrinkle. Steaming the face gently, afterward massaging the wrinkles easily with cold cream, will produce a wonderful effect. Steaming must not be done often, however, once a week being frequent enough.

For odorous perspiration make a powder of one-half ounce of oleate of zinc, one ounce of powdered starch and one scruple of salicylic acid. Mix thoroughly. Buy some salicylic soap and use that to wash the parts most affected. Dry and wipe over with toilet vinegar. The vinegar helps to contract the pores, preventing perspiration. After wiping with vinegar dust on the powder. Put on fresh linen as often as possible and wash the dress shields every day, using the salicylic soap.

Those owners having farms for sale or contemplating the sale of them should remember that when a farm is listed with an agent with the understanding that he is to have a commission, said commission is only collectible on the bona fide sale of such property by his agent.

FOR SMALL KITCHENS.

Practical Furnishings That Affect Comfort of the Entire House.

The condition of the kitchen may affect the comfort of an entire house, for if cool is not good tempered, the family is apt to know it by the dishes she sends to the table. For this reason it for no other it is the part of policy to make the woman's work as convenient and attractive as possible, and much may be done with the pantry.

Shelves covered with rabbit cloth not only look well, but more easily kept clean than if bare or covered with paper. The cloth can be wiped over with a damp rag and made perfectly fresh, whereas wool requires the use of soap and more thorough drying. Paper rumples and turns to allow dust or crumbs to get beneath.

Whatever is decided upon should be so cut as to hang over the front shaped into scallops. This is a pretty finish and also prevents the stuff turning up to become a dust trap.

A tuck at each corner front and back, is sufficient to hold and should not be driven in so far as the head, for it is then more difficult to pull when the time arrives to remove the covering.

Vegetables, such as potatoes, onions and the like, frequently used in a kitchen pantry are apt to attract bugs if not carefully looked after. The best receptacle for such eatables are galvanized iron pails, which will not warp or fall apart and from which the dirt is easily washed. The objection to having vegetables cleaned when they come into the house is that water will often cause them to decay before they can be used.

If, as is the case in some summer houses, there is no piano, more effort will be required to make shelves in the kitchen look well and neat. Old window shades will do best of these. To accomplish this cut the rom from a curtain and measure it the length of the shelves.

Fasten the brackets to the shelf so that a white curtain tacked to the roller will hang close at either side and overlap it about one inch. Fasten a ring to the slot in the hem of the curtain to pull it down and raise, and you will be surprised to see how long it will look.

If you want the cupboard dark to help in keeping out flies, use a dark colored curtain outside of the white one and tacked with it to the shelf and roller. This makes a very neat little cupboard and is easily kept clean, as the white curtain only requires to be soaked a few hours in warm suds and then boiled, rinsed, pressed and returned to the shelf.

If the shelves and curtains behind them are painted white the paper may be dispensed with, and the end of the cupboard will be much less, as the changing of paper is more bother than wiping off the shelves with a cloth wrung from suds.

Cretone is sometimes used for the shelves and is very pretty for the purpose, especially if it is a small stand with a sewing basket or book on it and an easy rocker. A cushion of the crotone near the front door of course, for the kitchen where there is plenty of room to sit in comfort, unusual for a time.

One mother is accustomed to give such order as the following: "Iron the white skirt for width, but the blue one for length." Which means plint the blue one must be ironed with the grain of the goods, while across the grain is best for the white goods.

The Art of Talking.

If you would be a good talker, tell the truth as far as possible.

When you are among people do not feel as if you must at once make a special effort to be different from what you always are.

Let your brain work as it would if you were at home alone, and then you will be sure to say and do just as bright and interesting things as you taught yourself saying and doing when you are alone.

Not a Question of Grammar.

"From my grammatical standpoint," said the girl with the lofty fore-head, "which do you consider correct, 'I had rather go home,' or 'I would rather go home?'"

"Neither," promptly responded the young man. "I'd much rather stay here."—Answers.

Those owners having farms for sale or contemplating the sale of them should remember that when a farm is listed with an agent with the understanding that he is to have a commission, said commission is only collectible on the bona fide sale of such property by his agent.

TAILORED CLOTHES.

A Way to Successfully Press Coats and Skirts.

It costs a dollar to have a skirt sponged and pressed, and dollars for the most of us don't grow on every bush. Yet it is impossible to look well groomed unless the costume shows signs of being well cared for.

Although it is hard work to do one's own pressing, the girl who has more time than money may be willing to spend some strength for the sake of keeping her clothes in order. The girl who undertakes the task should own a skirt board, of which one end should be perfectly squared, a sleeve board, a sofa board, a heavy and medium iron and a sunflame one, with one end slightly turned up. A tailor's goose is a good thing to have, but it is so heavy that the average girl cannot manipulate it. So the heavy iron must be made to take its place.

This last is used mainly for pressing the bottoms of skirts. When one has been caught in the rain the skirt should never be worn again until well pressed, especially at the bottom. No matter how handsome a dress may be, if wrinkled by the rain it is most ugly.

All mud spots having been removed, the skirt should be put wrong side out over a skirt board and a few inches of the bottom thoroughly wiped with a wet cloth. A dry cloth should then be held on, and the heavy iron, moderately hot, should be applied while the skirt is held taut and smooth. The weight of the iron will hold it down at one end, and the left hand should draw it at the other. After the entire skirt has been treated in this way start over again with a moderate iron, this time possibly without any cloth intervening. It will be found that the material will be of uniform dampness all around. Iron smoothly and unremittingly until absolutely dry. Very often more pressing with a moderate iron will be found sufficient for the rest of the skirt, as it is the bottom which suffers most on account of its thickness.

Frequently if a dress of thin material is wrinkled more hanging up smoothly in the damp night air will repair the evil. Better yet is it to fold it smoothly and lay it away in a trunk for a time. If necessary to really press, however, wipe lightly one breadth at a time with a wet cloth and iron with moderate heat, always pushing from the band with the grain of the goods, never from band to hem and never across. If this injunction is not followed the set of the skirt may be entirely altered. It may be found too short all around or of uneven length. One mother is accustomed to give such order as the following: "Iron the white skirt for width, but the blue one for length." Which means plint the blue one must be ironed with the grain of the goods, while across the grain is best for the white goods.

A New Perfume For the Bath.

A deliciously refreshing perfume for the bath is the salts of genetine eau de cologne. A tablespoonful, or possibly double the quantity if one likes the odor especially strong, put in the bathtub makes the water soft and delightful to use. Eau de cologne is marvelously refreshing at all times, and this extract of salts in the bath will do much to take away the fatigue of a long day or start one off in the morning invigorated and more than ready for the day's work.

The various toilet waters are all delicious for the bath if used in small quantities, but none can equal this new salt of eau de cologne.

GIVE THEM THE BEST.

There would seem to be little excuse for any home being without reading matter of any kind or provided with the cheap, trashy kind when so much that is wholesome and full of human interest can be got at such a reasonable figure. Hawthorne's tales, Irving's "Sketch-Book," the works of Scott and Dickens, Tennyson's "Idylls of the King" and "Enoch Arden," Longfellow's "Evangeline" and "Hiawatha," with the later works of Louise M. Alcott and Kate Douglas Wiggin, are but a few of the many good books that should be within reach of the children in every home. If they have intelligent provider of this kind, they won't be caught up in the haymow with cigarettes and yellow backed trash or attempt to wreck the nearby passenger train in their endeavor to put the rubbish they read into practice.
